

Dear Illumio Team,

I am writing to express my keen interest in the product design intern position, as advertised on LinkedIn. My name is Jueun Jeon, and I am a dedicated UX designer deeply passionate about crafting meaningful user experiences.

Currently pursuing an MFA in Interaction Design at SVA, I have honed my skills in various design problem-solving techniques and research methodologies. Through my education, I have gained proficiency in conducting user research, interviews, and translating insights into actionable design strategies. My expertise extends to crafting user personas, user flows, journey maps, wireframes, prototypes, and digital-based designs tailored to meet both user needs and business objectives.

My professional journey has afforded me invaluable opportunities to collaborate with esteemed companies such as Bigtincan, Watson Adventures, and The Giant Room. These experiences have exposed me to diverse design challenges, allowing me to refine my skills and develop a nuanced understanding of industry dynamics. Additionally, my tenure at PNY Technologies equipped me with essential collaboration skills, particularly in liaising with development teams.

I am enthusiastic about the prospect of contributing to your team and expanding my design process expertise. With a solid educational foundation and practical experience, I am confident in my ability to make meaningful contributions to your projects. Thank you for considering my application.

Sincerely,
Jueun Jeon
